The two official graduate student associations of the EDSS Department within the SOE are pleased to announce the first ever combined "Graduate and Alumni Leaders in Education" Conference put on by the Counseling and School Psychology programs. The two EDSS Student organizations, CGSA (Counseling Graduate Student Association) and GASP (Graduate Association of School Psychology) have joined forces to plan this momentous event to take place next spring on March 18th, 2017. Proposals are now being accepted on research or professional development topics that coordinate with the conference theme, "Collaborate to Educate". The purpose of the convention is to allow alumni and graduate students in the School of Education at LMU to collaborate, build interpersonal relationships and share insight on experiences and ideas. It allows the opportunity for graduate students to present their knowledge, network with alumni and other professionals, and be involved outside of a class setting. Additionally, it promotes diversity in leadership to help future educators respond to our culturally diverse schools.

The Conference theme is "Collaborate to Educate" and graduate student leader facilitators are now accepting proposals for 45-minute presentation workshops. The convention will be held at St. Robert's Auditorium in LMU, with presentation slots available from 9am to 12pm. The topic of your presentation should adhere with the collaboration theme in some way. Proposal submission deadline is on Saturday December 17th, 2016 and should be a maximum of one page. Please send all proposals to Galeconvention@gmail.com. Selected participants will be notified January 4th, 2017.

Proposals should be submitted to algk9d@mail.missouri.edu by December 30, 2016.

Discover CORA, the Community of Online Research Assignments

Librarians at Loyola Marymount University have launched CORA, the Community of Online Research Assignments. CORA is an online, open access site consisting of contributed assignments, activities, and other teaching resources that engage with information literacy concepts and practices. CORA was developed through a Statewide California Electronic Library Consortium Project Initiatives Fund grant. The grant proposed to expand upon an internal information literacy assignment collection by using the "cooking" metaphor to envision the assignments as recipes that could be tweaked or easily adapted to fit into any information literacy curriculum. All assignments contributed to this collection are released under an intellectual property license that permits their free use and re-purposing by other educators. Assignments are searchable by discipline, information literacy concept, ability level, or keyword. You can bookmark and browse the CORA homepage at www.projectcora.org.
