Howard University's School of Education and The American Association of School Administrators (AASA) have partnered to offer the Urban Superintendents' Academy. This year-long Academy will offer aspiring and currently serving superintendents a revolutionary new approach to ensuring success in urban settings and recruit a new generation of minority educators to the superintendency. As a result of participation, district leaders will increase their leadership competencies and skill set that should result in a rapid rise to senior executive positions in the superintendency. Vital components of the program are the establishment of long-term relationships between participants and experienced mentors, as well as the development of a research based plan for recurrent learning and professional growth. More specifically, key program components include:

- A consistent emphasis upon "problems of practice," enabling participants instrumental in shaping the vision, mission and goals of the SOE Alumni Association or, if you are an alumna/us, express your interest in serving as a member of the inaugural SOE Alumni Board.

To nominate yourself, please submit a Board Member Interest Form no later than Friday, May 8. For questions, please contact Tiffany Markarian at tmarkarian@lmu.edu or 310.258.8869.

Faculty News

Dr. Mary McCullough has been invited to become an honorary member of Alpha Sigma Nu for her service to our students, to the university, and to the community. Alpha Sigma Nu, founded in 1915, recognizes students and individuals who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, loyalty and service, and who have promoted the ideals of Jesuit education.

Deanna Pittman, Doctoral Program Coordinator, received Staff Member of the Year award at the Annual School of Education end of the year dinner.

Congratulations,
Deanna! Thank you for all your hard work!

to investigate together potential solutions for universal and site-specific problems, issues, and dilemmas facing urban superintendents today.

- Seminars and conference sessions offered jointly by Howard University and AASA, including sessions with award-winning superintendents with extensive urban experience.
- Mentoring options, including opportunities to “walk side by side” with great urban educational leaders.
- Critical friends support and networking groups that will comprise “affinity groups,” reinforcing a clinical, field based approach to preparing for the role of urban superintendent.
- Internships and related field experiences.
- Creative and professionally engaging culminating projects that ensure publication as part of the credentialing process.
- Ongoing career counseling and coaching, including frequent simulations of interviews, public forums, and stakeholder group simulations.
- An annual national conference open to all to participate in workshops, presentations, discussions, and problem solving related to urban school districts and leadership.

For educational leaders that are also earning a doctorate, we are offering a reduced tuition rate along with the opportunity to earn graduate credit from Howard University. The application is open and accessible at <http://www.howard.edu/schooleducation/>.
